JAPAN SATISFIES U. S. GOVERNMENT

[By Latest Mail] WASHINGTON, D. C.—Satisfactory assurances have been received from Japan regarding her intentions in the war against Germany, according to the statements made by President Wilson to callers Thursday. He indicates that nothing had occurred liable to cause concern on the part of the American government.

China's protest to Japan against the seizure of the German-owned Shantung railway is regarded by state department officials as a move solely to protect the Chinese government against future demands of indemnity by Germany.

HARBOR BOARD TO MAKE TOUR OF BIG ISLAND

The board of harbor commissioners, at a special meeting yesterday evening, decided to make a tour of inspection over the island of Hawaii, leaving Honolulu on the Mauna Loa November 27, landing at Mahukona the following day and investigating the condition of practically all territorial piers and landings around the Big Island. Special attention will be given the new Kihio bay wharf, a recent report from Hilo stating that the damage to the breakwater and the wharf during the last big storm was much greater than originally estimated. Two days may be spent on the Kihio bay wharf matter.

Chairman C. R. Forbes, who has now finished a series of wharf inspections over all the islands, gave a very pessimistic report of the condition of the publicly-owned landings and piers. He declared that with scarcely an exception they are in "rotten" condition. The board plans to give this subject immediate attention.

Contractor A. A. Wilson has been given the contract to dismantle the old wharf at MacGregory's landing, Maui, work to begin November 24. In place of this pier the Inter-Island Steam Navigation Company hereafter will be required to load and unload passengers and freight at Kihio.

MILITARY NOW ABSOLUTE IN GERMAN AFFAIRS

[Associated Press] BERLIN, Germany.—To say that civil authority in Germany has everywhere given way to military government would be to overstate the case, and yet it is true that within its own field of affairs the military is not only absolute, but also at times inclined utterly to disregard even the highest state officials. This prevails to such an extent that passes, for instance, from the minister of foreign affairs are only valid when some army officer is disposed to recognize them.

The foreign correspondents left in Berlin have recently had occasion to witness the working of military government. The foreign office sent to them, unsolicited, an invitation to visit the war prisoners' detention barracks at Dohert, some 15 miles outside the capital. The newspapermen assembled at the time and place directed. With them were Capt. Loehlein of the imperial admiralty and several high officials of the foreign office. The commander of the military camp, an elderly general, approached the group and addressed them brusquely.

"Nobody will be admitted to see the prisoners," he said. And as long as I am commander here, the same rule will prevail."

He turned his back on the state officials and newspapermen and strode back to his room without a word of explanation. The fact that the visitors were present by invitation of the government made no difference to him.

The civil officials of Germany realize that the fact that the neutral nations are getting so little news from the German side is in some degree the fault of this lack of cooperation between the civil and military officials.

If the former could have their way, the foreign press service from Germany would be much more nearly complete, but they are blocked by this attitude of the army officials.

ARE OUR RICH RICHER OR MORE TRUTHFUL?

[By Latest Mail] WASHINGTON, D. C.—According to the best information available, not a person in Great Britain this year has paid a tax on an income of more than $1,000,000 a year, whereas in the United States forty-four persons paid taxes on incomes of that amount or more.

Fifty-five persons made returns on incomes of $500,000 in Great Britain, while in this country but forty-four made returns on a similar amount.

There were fifty-six persons in Great Britain with incomes of $200,000 apiece while in the United States 145 made returns on that sum. Great Britain had 438 persons making returns of incomes of $100,000, while in this country 785 persons admitted they got that much money yearly.

No figures on the amount of income tax paid by residents of France are available now. The income tax law in that country has been in effect only a comparatively short time.

Haak—"What time do you record it is, Hilt?" Hilt—"It's half-past seven, and it's raining."

Haak—"Well, it's a heck of a time to be out in the rain, isn't it?" Hilt—"Yes, it is, but I have to work in the soap factory if we was working."
